

I would greatly appreciate the FCC not to implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Since it's enactment, I have been able to eat dinner without interruption. What a blessing. I understand the telemarketers have a right to try to get business, but I have the right not to have to listen to them and to not have my life defined by the phone continually ringing for something I don't need or want. Before Indiana enacted the law, I received probably 10-12 calls a day. That is ridiculous. I hope you will take our rights to some privacy in consideration. Thank you.
